SUBJECT: Warfel receives four Industry Awards

East Petersburg, PA - Warfel Construction Company received four awards from the Keystone Chapter of the Associated Builders and Contractors during the recent annual Excellence in Construction awards gala. The event recognizes contractors who perform superior work throughout central Pennsylvania and surrounding areas.

An Award of Excellence, the highest form of recognition in each category, was received for the new $10 million Duffy Performing Arts Center at Malvern Preparatory School in Malvern, PA. This impressive center is home to a 600 seat performing arts theater with state-of-the-art flytower stage rigging, and features lighting and performance audio systems as can be seen at most professional performing arts facilities around the country.

Three Awards of Merit were also presented to Warfel. These projects included the $ 7 million renovation and expansion of the Phoenixville YMCA, a $4.4 million new Stauffers of Kissel store in Lancaster, and a $1 million renovation project at Ursinus College.

Established in Lancaster in 1911, Warfel provides general contracting and construction management services to clients in Pennsylvania and the surrounding states.
